Owners of dangerous dogs 'should face the same penalties as people who carry knives'

By Lucy Purdy

CONCERNED staff at an animal shelter in Wood Green have joined animal welfare groups across the UK to urge the government to take immediate action on dangerous dogs.

Just days after a ten-year-old girl underwent emergency reconstructive surgery after being attacked by two rottweiler dogs, a public pledge has been launched against so-called weapon dogs, spearheaded by deputy mayor for Policing Kit Malthouse.

Staff at Wood Green Animal Shelters, based in Lordship Lane, have joined growing calls for there to be greater control of these potentially dangerous animals and for their owners to face the same penalties as if they were carrying a knife.

Police figures obtained by the Advertiser reveal there have been 127 offences under the 1991 Dangerous Dogs Act in the past four years in Haringey, in which a dog has either attacked a person, another pet or has been deemed to be dangerously out of control.

Shelter manager Katie Wickins, who organises dog and puppy training groups and works with owners of "status dogs" to promote responsible pet ownership, said current legislation does not go far enough.

She said: "We are supposed to have dogs to enhance our lives, not to bite and hurt people."

"We believe that irresponsible dog ownership, whether it is stray or dangerous dogs or indiscriminate breeding of dogs causes significant problems for the safety and welfare of both humans and animals. Current legislation is proving inadequate in many cases to ensure sufficient protection."

"We need sufficient resources at a local level for both police and local authorities and we need new legislation that has a genuine preventative effect in order to address this problem."

Baby P whistleblower's victimisation plea fails

A WHISTLEBLOWER who raised the alarm over child protection failings at Haringey Council has lost her claim of victimisation against the authority.

Former social worker Nevres Kemal, who warned social workers were not following procedure just six months before the death of 17-month-old Baby Peter, made the claim after her application last year to get a job as a social worker for the council was again refused.

She claimed she was being victimised for speaking out about the problems at the council, but her case was rejected at Watford Employment Tribunal. A court spokesman said Ms Kemal's claims of "public interest disclosure detriment" were "not well-founded" after the decision was handed down last week.

Ms Kemal spoke exclusively to the Advertiser last week, saying she was "disappointed but not surprised" with the decision.

She said: "It is not about winning or losing because Haringey has lost in all senses of the word. What saddened me is that it shouldn't have gone to court. Why shouldn't I get my job back?"

Ms Kemal, 45, was dismissed after sending letters criticising the "out of control" department but tragically vindicated after Baby Peter Connolly died at the hands of his mother, her boyfriend and their lodger at their house in Tottenham, in August 2007. Welfare professionals had visited the home in Penshurst Road 60 times before he died but failed to spot the danger he was in.

Saddened: Nevres Kemal says she is 'disappointed but not surprised'

A spokeswoman for the council said: "We welcome the tribunal's decision to dismiss Ms Kemal's claims against Haringey Council. Our focus remains on ensuring that the improvements we are making to our children's service continue apace."

Ms Kemal ran as a Lib Dem candidate for Noel Park ward in the election in the summer but failed to get elected. She said at the time: "I didn't know the bigger picture when I was saying that children I was caring for weren't being protected."

"It was a very simple question and I got a hell of a complex answer." news.haringey@nlhnews.co.uk

Mystery OAP wins £25,000

A GRANDFATHER from Tottenham has scooped a £25,000 prize in a London-wide competition aimed at encouraging people to pay council tax by direct debit.

"Mr S", a bench engineer in his sixties, was plucked as the winner from a pool of more than 985,000 entrants across 20 London boroughs.

The winner, who has lived with his wife in Haringey for more than 20 years, has paid his council tax by direct debit since 1996. He plans to spend some of his prize on a new car, gifts for the family - including his four grandchildren - and a trip to visit relatives in Italy.

Take a peek at Open House

CURIOUS minds can take a peek into Haringey's most interesting buildings in Open House weekend.

Hornsey Library and Bruce Castle Museum are among 18 properties - from private homes to public buildings - which will be open on September 18 and 19.

Coleridge Primary School, Markfield Beam Engine And House and Alexandra Palace will also be welcoming visitors, and walking tours of Tottenham Green conservation area and Tower Gardens estate will also be available.

It's never too late for adult swimmers to take plunge

Confidence growing: Lucy improves her swimming

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Encouraging: Swimming instructor Louise Redman

WHEN I had swimming lessons at school I was always in the lowest set, the group of fearful-looking girls lingering by the side with armbands and floats constantly within reach, shivering and jostling for position on the handrail of safety... in the shallow end.

While I've never been as terrified of the water as some, the type who worry they are going to drown while washing in the morning, I've never really felt at ease in the swimming pool. I was even lucky enough to go to lessons when I was younger, which my sister and I would go to every Saturday night, but somehow I never really took to it and managed only a measly beginner's badge next to her colourful haul.

While my friends would splash around happily, tearing from one end of the pool to the other, dive bombing and diving in, I would struggle to complete a width and wonder why I was finding swimming so very difficult.

So when I was offered a couple of lessons at Tottenham Green Leisure Centre to publicise Haringey Council's free swimming scheme, I jumped at the chance.

Smiling instructor Louise Redman met me at the pool and appeared to have none of the hallmarks of a terrifying swimming teacher. There were no starched tracksuits, whistles or cruel, barked instructions to stick your head in and get on with it – a great relief for a hydrophobe like me.

"Do you want to get in and show me what you can do?" she said, which I did, showing her exactly what I couldn't do.

After awkwardly flapping and gasping my way across a couple of widths, this seemed to boil down to the fact that I could do vaguely the right movements at the right time but could not breathe while doing so.

"That's not a problem," said Louise cheerfully, as I did my best dying fish-impression back at the side and tried in vain to poke my contact lenses back in to mascara-bleary eyes.

By Lucy Purdy

"You just need to go back to learning the strokes and incorporating the breathing in at the same time. You've obviously picked up some bad habits so it's just a case of needing to rewire your brain. Don't worry, we'll get there." And we did.

SLOWLY, I began to time my strokes to allow enough time to take a breath. She persuaded me to trust my body's natural buoyancy, twist and turn my hands at exactly the right time to sail through the water and by the second hour I could manage a passable breast stroke, front crawl and back stroke.

Despite writing myself off years ago as a non-swimmer, Louise taught me by adjusting just a few small details I could do it. She persuaded me to lie flat in the water rather than snaking from side to side and patiently pointed out that I rush my strokes in a panic to reach the other side. She taught me to relax and slow things down, which seemed to work wonders for my ability to stay afloat and, while I may not exactly be a contender for London 2012, I'm now itching to get back in the pool.

As we chatted in the café afterwards, 24-year-old Louise explained that I am not alone in being a reluctant adult swimmer.

She said: "Often we get people who swam a little bit when they were younger and haven't been back since or people who have a lifelong fear of water. Some have had a bad experience in their past or even known someone else who has been in danger in the water and this has been passed on. Sometimes parents pass it on to their children.

"But I think that whatever age you are, swimming is a really important life skill. It's also great for your health and fun."

And Louise, who used to swim competitively for Haringey and who is usually a schools swimming instructor, said she finds her job incredibly rewarding.

"We get 11 or 12-year-olds who are shaking when they first come for lessons because they've never been in the water before," she said.

"And by the end of that year they're swimming a whole length. These are children who probably would never have the chance to experience lessons otherwise because their families can't afford them so it's really nice to be able to offer them that chance."

□ NOW adults in Haringey can get six free swimming lessons when they are booked as a 14-week course working with the Amateur Swimming Association (ASA). There are a range of lessons at Tottenham Green Leisure Centre, Park Road Leisure Centre or Northumberland Park School including beginners classes for people looking to gain confidence in the water as well as improve their skills and technique.

And younger swimmers can go along to Swim-A-Song sessions for under-fives, "duckling" lessons for children aged between three and four and a national seven-stage programme for five to 16-year-olds. And it is not just about ploughing through the lengths. Later this year, there will also be courses in diving, water polo and synchronised swimming.

Many cultures arrive for street party

NEIGHBOURS enjoyed an afternoon of dance, music, food and fun at a street party in Tottenham and came face to face with a famous former resident.

Playwright, actor and TV presenter Kwame Kwei-Armah opened the Elmhurst Road street party, which has become an annual fixture in the street's calendar in the past three years. Kwame used to live in the street before moving to Muswell Hill and still maintains close links with the community.

The fun on August 21 included a football masterclass, a lively demonstration of the dancing phenomenon Bhangra'cise, a performance by 15-year-old rising singing star Jermaine Jackman and a demonstration of Zumba dancing.

Steve Toussaint, an Elmhurst Road resident and one of the organisers, said: "We were a bit concerned as the weather hasn't been as good as in previous years, but it got bigger and bigger and was great. So many people came along which was really wonderful."

"Next year we're hoping to bring it forward slightly because it fell in Ramadan this year – so many Muslim neighbours brought food along but weren't able to join in. This is the third annual party and it has just grown and grown – it's wonderful."

The menu on the day reflected the diverse ethnic make-up of the road, featuring dishes from Albanian, Polish, Eritrean, Brazilian and Caribbean residents.

Warning over hoax 999 calls

By Lucy Purdy

FRUSTRATED firefighters have issued a warning about hoax 999 calls after almost 90 were made in Haringey last year, diverting crews away from genuine emergencies.

Haringey's firefighters are asking parents to speak to their children about the potentially deadly consequences of making hoax 999 calls.

There were 86 in the borough last year – each time diverting a 999 operator from answering real emergency calls and also sending crews to non-existent blazes.

"Clearly the biggest problem is that these calls could prevent a fire engine from attending a real fire or emergency and put lives at risk," said Richard Mills, London Fire Brigade's borough commander for Haringey. "But there are plenty of other reasons why these calls are a major headache for us."

"Every time we send crews out because of a hoaxer we are taking them away from training or community safety work, wasting taxpayers' cash, all for a fire that doesn't exist. This is not how Londoners want their emergency services to spend precious time and money."

Every year London Fire Brigade receives more than 7,000 hoax calls – 138 a week. Referred to as "malicious false alarms", calls range from children phoning as a bit of fun, to people of all ages fascinated by the emergency services or looking for attention. London Fire Brigade is now hoping parents can warn children who are bored and looking for something to do that making prank calls is not a joking matter and could put lives at risk."

Senior operations manager Joanne Stibbards, from London Fire Brigade's 999 control centre, said: "Our control officers are trained to recognise and challenge potential hoaxers."

"For instance, we can tell the caller we believe they are making a hoax call, or we can say we know they are in a call box and then reveal their exact location. Often this is enough to make a hoaxer hang up."

Call to community for Lordship Rec

CROWDS are expected to flock to Lordship Recreation Ground in Tottenham on September 11 for an annual extravaganza of sport, activities and fun.

A flower and produce show, dog agility competition, skateboarding and BMXing demonstrations, football tournament, arts and crafts, pond-dipping, pony rides and a children's procession are just some of the activities taking place at the ground in Lordship Lane from 1-5pm.

Residents are awaiting a decision on £4million of Lottery cash which has the potential to boost Tottenham's largest park.

"We'd like as many people as possible to help publicise the regeneration plans and to get actively involved," said Dave Morris, chairman of the Lordship Rec users forum.

Crook who stole ballet shoes from OAP goes on run

By Lucy Purdy

A MAN who stole a pair of ballet shoes originally belonging to Margot Fonteyn from an elderly man he befriended has gone on the run after failing to appear for his sentencing.

Officers are trying to trace burglar Graham Shoebridge after he did not show up for a hearing at Blackfriars Crown Court on August 20. He had pleaded guilty to burglary and criminal damage at Highbury Corner Magistrates' Court on July 22, where he was bailed by the court until sentencing.

Police were contacted in December 2009 by anxious relatives of a 79-year-old man Shoebridge had befriended and moved in with. The malicious 37-year-old then began to systematically harass him, steal from him and cause damage to his home in Crouch Hill.

After the family managed to get him to leave the property, Shoebridge began harassing

the victim and his family, making obscene phone calls to the man's elderly sister and sending offensive letters about him and his late partner to relatives and friends.

On December 17, the elderly man came home to find his pair of antique ballet shoes, previously belonging to the late English ballerina worth about £40,000, and other personal items had been stolen.

Shoebridge travelled around the country to escape the clutches of justice and was eventually traced in Torquay after being arrested for a similar offence – targeting a member of the lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender community in Devon.

During his 70-day prison sentence, Shoebridge told Islington police where the stolen Margot Fonteyn ballet shoes were.

Detective Sergeant Julie Henderson said: "We would urgently like to trace Graham Shoebridge, who has previously targeted members of the LGBT community. Although he is not thought to be dangerous, he is capable of doing this to someone else."

"This has been extremely upsetting for the victims and their families, and we want to trace him so that he can be sentenced for these crimes. He may be using an alias."

Jail for mum who broke bus driver's arm in attack

By Lucy Purdy

A VIOLENT young mother who attacked a female bus driver in Tottenham, breaking her arm and dislocating her shoulder, has been jailed for nine months.

Stacey Morris grabbed the woman from the bus and threw her to the pavement as her young child looked on from a push chair during the attack on October in 2008. The 21-year-old unemployed mother from Brigadier Hill, Enfield, was angry after being told the Route 221 bus was out of service as it waited at West Green Road, opposite Ducketts Common.

She will now begin a jail spell after a joint investigation was launched by the Met's safer transport command and Transport for London's workplace violence unit.

Morris handed herself in after an appeal was made for information in December by Crimestoppers and bus operator Arriva London. They also offered a £10,000 reward for information. Morris was charged on January 15 but then pleaded not guilty at Wood Green Crown Court. However, on the day of the trial, Morris changed her plea to guilty and was bailed for sentencing on August 23.

Chief Superintendent Joe Royle

said: "This woman carried out an unprovoked, vicious attack on a bus driver, leaving her with serious injuries. This sentence has taken a violent woman off the streets of London."

Siwan Hayward, Deputy Director for Community Safety, Enforcement and Policing at TfL, added: "This was a nasty attack on someone who was simply doing their job."

Teenage robbers jailed after armed raid on newsagents

A TRIO of young tearaways have been put behind bars for a total of eight years for holding up a newsagents in Tottenham.

Three 16-year-olds were sentenced last week for carrying out an audacious armed robbery at West Green News late on May 7. They stormed the shop, in West Green Road, wearing balaclavas and hoods and threatened the staff using a gun and knife. They grabbed money from the till before running from the shop and heading south into Harringay Road.

An hour later, CCTV operators spotted the trio walking towards Black Boy Lane in Tottenham. Armed response officers stopped them in the streets 15 minutes later and a revolver was found in grassland behind railings near where the three were stopped.

They were arrested on suspicion of robbery and possession of a firearm and taken into custody. Cash and a knife were found at the home of one of the boys. All three pleaded guilty at Wood Green Crown Court on July 15. One 16-year-old, from south Tottenham was sentenced to three years, a second youth from Tottenham was sentenced to two years' detention and a third 16-year-old from Edmonton was sentenced to three years.

Dir: Sacha Bennett

Starring: Tamer Hassan, Vincent Regan, Terry Stone

IT'S as subtle as a Basildon boy gatecrashing a vicar's tea-party in his souped-up convertible, waving a bunch of twenties, and bellowing, "OY OY!"

For connoisseurs of crap geezer films the only disappointment is that Danny Dyer is not in it while Ray Winstone must have been too busy beating someone up.

The latest in a weird sub-genre investigating – or rather, fetishising – the "Essex Boys" murders in 1995 in which three gangsters were gunned down in their Range Rover, it throws little new light on the thug-gish, drugged-up lives of those involved and just seems an excuse for a riot of snorting, shooting and swearing.

Based on doorman Bernard O'Mahoney's book it focuses on the three unpleasant kingpins: Tony Tucker, Patrick Tate and Craig Rolfe and a rival gang led by ex-con Mickey Steele who received three life sentences for their subsequent murders.

Flipping between Steel and Tate meeting in jail and Tucker and Rolfe building up their nightclub/drug empire outside, their lives soon intersect before the '90s drugs scene spirals out of control leaving a teenager dead and raging coke paranoia gripping the three protagonists.

The sequences at the start are easily the best as we're introduced to the esoteric world of the gangster and the ring of authenticity chimes loudly, but then all good intentions are scrapped as cliché upon cliché is piled on top of one another to form a great skyscraper of unoriginal thought comprising: fat lines of cocaine, girls as sex objects and the most hilarious effing and blinding which manages to use the two most offensive swear words in a ridiculous amount of variations while their frequency would make Roy Chubby Brown blush.

It's hard to tell whether the acting is up to much as the hard men just spend their time looking hard but the dialogue, plots and characters are decidedly cheap while the strange jumps from scene to scene suggest a lot of even worse dross has been hacked away in the editing suite. We await the director's cut with dread...

Successful adaptation of the first Jeff Kinney comic which details that awkward age from 11 to 14. Gently amusing and perceptive, it's only let down by the episodic nature which makes it a little too whimsical to earn a fourth star.

Gainsbourg (15)

Eric Elmosnino is uncanny as Serge Gainsbourg. A sinister, puppet-like alter ego pops up intermittently to explain Gainsbourg's internal conflict but the film lifts off after we meet Lucy Gordon as the Frenchman's English lover Jane Birkin.

Salt (12A)

Jason Bourne's younger sister, super-spy Evelyn Salt, legs it round America in this enjoyably ridiculous action adventure containing more twists and U-turns than a Liberal Democrat in power. Angelina Jolie provides the beauty and the brawn but the writer couldn't provide the brains.

The Last Airbender (PG)

Once you've got over the hilarious repetition of the word "bender" and the duff dialogue, plot and characters... there isn't much left to say about M.Night Shyamalan's latest fall from grace.

Lauderdale photos attract top talent

FOLLOWING a tough few hours of decision-making, the winners of this year's Lauderdale House Photographic Competition have been announced.

The 25th annual event attracted hundreds of entries which were eventually whittled down to just two by a top team of judges, including this paper's arts editor, Jonathan Lovett.

Marina by Jane Hobson was selected as the overall winner and the winner of the Open Category, while Hazel Lambert by Jane Garfield was the winner of this year's specialist category which was Communication.

Marina is a striking image of a model having a break between scenes for an advertising shoot last November in what looks like a glamorous location such as Hollywood or the south of France...

"It's Basildon, actually!" said Jane, laughing. "They should use it in a campaign saying, 'Come to Basildon'." "I was assisting the underwater photographer Zena Holloway and I just saw the model relaxing and decided to capture the moment on camera.

Decisions: Jonathan Lovett examines the entries, including Jane Hobson's Marina, left

"It wasn't posed and I like the 1960s cinematic feel to it."

Jane has just completed a two-year foundation course in photography and is now looking forward to a career behind the camera, bolstered by winning the prestigious Lauderdale award.

● The 25th Lauderdale House Photographic Exhibition, featuring dozens of the shortlisted entries, opens tonight and can be seen in the upper and long galleries until next Sunday.

Admission is free. The house is open from Tuesdays to Fridays, 11am to 4pm, and Sundays, noon to 5pm. For more details call the arts centre in Highgate Hill, Highgate, on 020 8348 8716.

Out and about

● I SAW Kate Smurthwaite do some after-dinner stand-up recently at the NUJ Press Awards. She was rubbish. Let's hope she's improved at the Comedy Variety Cabaret, Downstairs at the King's Head in Crouch End this Sunday. If Kate hasn't raised her game there's always Wayne Deakin, Yavir Perelmutter and Del Strain. Admission costs £7 (£5 concs) and doors open at 8pm. Call the box office on 020 8340 1028.

● THERE'S live music at the Moors Bar next Wednesday. Jessie Pie & The Fork Handles continue their weekly residency at the pub at 57 Park Road, Crouch End, playing a mixture of "fiery jazz, blues and originals" from the four-piece fronted by the charismatic Jessie. Entry is free and the doors open at 8pm with music starting at 8.30pm. For more details, visit www.moorsbar.com

● A GLORIOUS celebration of the wonderfully weird world of Eurovision takes place at the Millfield Arts Centre next week. St Monica's Players presents Eurobeat from next Thursday to Saturday at the venue in Silver Street, Edmonton. Tickets range from £8.50 to £12.50 and shows start at 7.45pm. Call the box office on 020 8807 6680.

Kings Make way for The Home Move Box

Kings Group have joined in with The Home Move Box, the latest initiative to buyers and tenants, to provide them with a welcome gift on moving in.

The idea is very simple, once Kings have confirmed the date the buyer or tenant move in, the box is delivered, completely free of charge to them.

It contains the basic groceries such as tea, milk, coffee, toilet rolls etc, and the little things that are often in the last box you can find when you really need to have a cup of tea!

Other partners included in the scheme are Virgin Media, who enclose a special offer in the pack, and British Gas PLC, who offer a free boiler check. In addition one of the leading publishers offers a way of ordering your daily newspaper at a special price.

Speaking about The Home Move Box, Karl Knipe partner at Kings Group says, "We chose to partner with the Home Move Box because it is such a simple idea, as these things often are, but it is a great concept. So many times we hear people talk about how they wish they had thought to have some basics available on moving day. All we do is tell them the moving day, and they do the rest"

"Moving is such a stressful time for everyone and every little helps, especially a cup of tea when you need one most!" Says Karl.

"What a great idea, and it arrived on moving day as promised" says Linda.

BTC LETTINGS WILL MANAGE ALL YOUR PROPERTY HEADACHES FOR ONLY 5%

Wouldn't it be great if the only thing you had to do with letting your property was enjoy your monthly income?

- * Properties urgently required
- * 1-3 years guaranteed rent available
- * Tenants with full referencing and guarantors
- * Contracts with Australian - New Zealand teachers, Indian IT graduates
- * Property Inspection Report every three months

Rents we will achieve for your flat/house:

- ★ Studio £650 - £750;
- ★ 1 bed £750 - £800;
- ★ 2 bed £950 - £1050;
- ★ 3 bed £1200 - £1300;
- ★ 4 bed £1500 - £1700;
- ★ 5 bed £2000+

BTC Lettings market reviews:

- ★ With not many property owners wanting to sell in this market, there is an overspill of properties to let, here at BTC we have over 200 properties to let
- ★ We are letting 1-3 properties a day - up to 50 a month, i.e. ONLY THE BEST SURVIVE!
- ★ With hunting tenants having sooooo much choice, one thing is clear and very important. There is just too much competition, if you are thinking of letting your property, the condition/decoration will have to be of high standard, (laminated flooring would be a good tip!).
- ★ Apart from poor condition, you may particularly struggle to find tenants if the property is above commercial property or in a high rise block.
- ★ Landlords accepting tenants on housing benefit are achieving higher rent.
- ★ Apart from gas safety certificate, all newly let properties must have an EPC certificate (Energy performance certificate).

Newly built properties are a 'better deal for buyers'

THIS week marks the start of New Homes Month – September 4 to October 3 – a celebration about buying new build homes in this country.

Despite the tough economic times, hundreds of thousands of people will still be buying and moving home in the next 12 months.

And those who buy newly built homes will be getting the better deal, according to David Pretty (pictured), chairman of the new homes marketing board.

Pretty says the difficulties faced by the housing market in the past two years have resulted in lower prices which have improved affordability, directly favouring those in a position to buy.

"We have been through tough times and it's not over yet, but it is too easy to be over-gloomy" he said. "The market is still moving and housebuilders are keenly pricing their new homes to sell and offering a wide range of help with moving costs and other incentives."

Launching New Homes Month, which will showcase the range, value and quality of new homes in the UK in September, Mr Pretty said the housebuilding industry had always offered buyers far more than the second-hand property market.

"As well as the fact that new homes are packed with lots more extra features than most older properties, the economic downturn has brought new home prices in line with the second-hand market, so there is no 'brand new' premium any more" he said. "Buying new is better value now than it has been for years, and more people are realising that."

He added: "We know British people are as wedded to the idea of home ownership as ever, with our own YouGov surveys in the past three years showing that almost nine out of ten adults believe that buying their own home is a sensible investment. The case for buying new homes – which are built to the latest energy-efficient green standards and come with outstanding help and customer service at record levels is now very compelling."

WIGAN STUN SORRY SPURS

By Lee Husson

TOTTENHAM manager Harry Redknapp admitted that his side "ran out of ideas" as they were brought crashing back down to earth by struggling Wigan at White Hart Lane on Saturday.

Hugo Rodallega scored the only goal of the game ten minutes from time as the Latics stunned a lacklustre Spurs – who had learned the previous day that they would face defending Champions Inter Milan in the group stage of the Champions League after their 4-0 win over Young Boys in the second leg of their qualifying match on Wednesday night.

Redknapp was also forced to withdraw Peter Crouch at half-time due to a rib injury as the visitors avenged last season's 9-1 thrashing in N17.

Spurs made a sluggish start and Steve Gohouri smashed a volley against the underside of the crossbar in the first half, while Antolin Alcaraz somehow fired over from close range with the goal gaping in the second half.

Jordi Gomez then volleyed over when unmarked, before Rodallega saw his shot creep under the body of Carlo Cudicini in goal to put Wigan in front.

The hosts laid siege to the visitors' goal in the last ten minutes, but could not find a way past keeper Ali Al Habsi, although Younes Kaboul sent a free header wide of the post in the closing stages.

"They played the extra man in midfield, closed us down, pressed us and made us go back to our centre-halves more than we would have liked," Redknapp told Sky Sports.

"Really we ran out of ideas of how to break them down and it got more and more difficult. Credit to them they played well and we had a bad day."

Meanwhile Redknapp was trying to secure the signing of Everton's Steven Pienaar before the transfer window closed yesterday evening, according to reports.

The Spurs manager's attempts to bring Luis Fabiano to White Hart Lane were foiled however when the Brazilian striker penned a new contract with his club Sevilla.

The boss did bring another goalkeeper to the club however, landing Croatian Stipe Pletikosa on loan.

Slip up: Redknapp admitted the 1-0 reversal was a poor defeat for Tottenham

Skolars end with defeat as coach Massara bows out

LONDON SKOLARS were unable to give outgoing head coach James Massara a fairytale send-off as Oldham Roughyeds eventually secured a comfortable 48-12 win at the New River Stadium on Friday night.

Massara, taking charge of the side for the last time, saw his side run second-placed Oldham close in the first half, before the visitors' class eventually shone through, seeing them complete the Co-Operative Championship One season by winning every single one of their away fixtures.

However, a battling display from the hosts almost threw the form book out the window.

It looked to be plain sailing originally for the visitors as they opened up a big lead after 15 minutes, with tries from Valu Bentley, Paul O'Connor, and John Gillam, along with goals kicked by Matty Ashe (two) and Gregg McNally.

But the hosts dragged themselves back into the game through Austen Aggrey's try, converted by Paul Thorman, before Neil Thorman dived over after the Skolars opted to run a close-range penalty.

Paul Thorman converted again to make it 18-12, and although Ben Heaton touched-down for Oldham, Olly Purslow crossed the line for another Skolars try, before Neil Thorman was denied only by a desperate last-ditch tackle from Mark Brocklehurst.

That proved to be the turning point as Brocklehurst's heroics galvanised Oldham, with scores from Chris Clarke, Gillam and McNally, plus three more goals from Ashe, leaving Massara to bow out with defeat.
